I SNOOKER: HOW TO PLAY

Snooker is similar to pool or billiards, it is played with 15 red balls (called reds), 6 balls of other colors (called colors) and a white cue ball, your goal is to pocket (pot) the balls in legal manner and score more points than your opponent.

 RED : 1 POINT

 YELLOW : 2 POINTS

 GREEN : 3 POINTS

 BROWN : 4 POINTS

 BLUE: 5 POINTS

 PINK: 6 POINTS

 BLACK: 7 POINTS

If fouls are committed, the opponent gets your penalty points.

While there are reds on the table, you have to strike and pocket the reds at every start of your turn. If you pocket a red, your turn continues and you have to pocket one of the colors that you strike. If you legally pocket a color, your turn continues and you go back to pocketing red. If you do not pocket a ball, you lose your turn.

While there are reds on the table, any color that is pocketed will be "spotted" on the table (i.e., returned on the table to its initial position). Any red that is pocketed will never be spotted.

Once all reds are off the table, the colors will have to be pocketed in the following order: Yellow, Green, Brown, Blue, Pink and Black. Any color illegally pocketed will be spotted on the table. Any color legally pocketed will remain off the table.

When only the black is left on the table, the next player that pockets it or commits a foul will end the "Frame". A frame is one round of the game. The player with most points wins the frame.

If any foul results in a snooker for the incoming player, the incoming player is allowed a free ball the player will be able to nominate any ball not "on" as the free ball and that ball becomes the ball 'on' for the next shot.

If the free ball is potted, it is scored as the ball 'on' and then returned to the table. If both the free ball and the ball 'on' are potted, only the ball 'on' is red in which case both are scored. The free ball is always spotted and plays continuous normally.

After a foul, the non-fouling player can force the fouling player to take the next shot if the table left by the foul is unattractive. If the foul resulted in snooker, the non-fouling player may either choose a free ball or make the fouling player go again.

I POOL : HOW TO PLAY

I US 8-BALL

This game is played with 15 object balls numbered 1 through 15 and a white cue ball. The object balls are divided into two groups-the solids (containing balls 1 through 7) and the striped (containing balls 9 through 15). The 8 ball does not belong to either group. The aim is to legally pocket all balls of a particular group assigned to a player and then legally pocket the 8 ball

To legally break, the cue ball must be shot from behind the head string and must contact the rack before hitting the rail (cushion) or else it is a foul. Also, at least one object ball must be pocketed or 4 numbered balls must be driven to the rail or else it is again a foul. If the 8-ball is pocketed on the break, it will be respotted and the current player will address the table as is. If a scratch occurs on the break along with pocketing the 8-ball will be respotted and the incoming player will have the cue ball in hand behind the head string.

Immediately following the break, the table is still "open" meaning group assignment has not been done yet. The assignment is automatically done on a shot following the break shot when a player legally pockets any object ball without committing a foul. The lowest numbered ball that the player legally pockets on an open table determines the group each player will play. If the table is open, any object ball may be contacted first but no points will be scored for pocketed balls

Once the groups have been assigned, failure to contact a ball belonging to your group is a foul. Failure to pocket any numbered ball or drive any ball to the rail is also a foul. Every foul after break results in incoming player having ball in hand anywhere on the table.

When the table is not open, balls pocketed with a foul will not be scored for current player but those belonging to the opponents group will be scored in favor of the opponent. Balls pocketed without a foul will be scored for each player depending on the group they belong to.

Pocketing the 8-ball anytime after the break results in loss of game unless the 8-ball was the only object ball on the table for that player when the last stroke was played. Legally pocketing the 8 ball awards the player 3 points while legally pocketing it awards the opponent 3 points, 1 point for each ball of the opponents group that is still on the table and 1 point of each ball if that same group that was pocketed in the last stroke.

Pocketing the 8-ball after the break when the table is still open results in loss of game and 10 points awarded to the opponent.

I US 9-BALL

This game is played with 9 object balls numbered 1 through 9 and a white cue ball. To play a legal shot, you must strike the lowest numbered ball that is currently on the table. For the braking shot, you must play the shot with the cue ball behind the head string and the strike the 1-ball and either pocket any numbered ball or drive 4 balls to the rail (cushion).

Immediately following the break, the player that will take the next shot can call a push-out. During a push-out the only foul possible is a scratch on the cue ball. The 9-ball is respotted if sunk during the push-out.

If the cue ball is pocketed (scratch), the 9-ball if pocketed is spotted (returned to the table) and the opponent gets ball in hand anywhere on the table.

For any shot, either a numbered ball must be pocketed or any ball must be driven to the rail after the first contact with the lowest ball. If not, it is a foul. The game ends when the 9-ball is legally pocketed.

You receive 1 point for every ball pocketed legally and 2 points for the 9-ball again only if pocketed legally. Three fouls committed by a player in three consecutive turns at the table results in loss of game.
